ABOUT THE COURSE

It's a common and unfortunate belief that the only people who require leadership skills are those who operate at a higher level. However, in today's VUCA (volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous) world, it has never been more important for every employee to possess leadership skills.

Great leaders have the ability and confidence to drive themselves and can empower others to do the same. They know how to leverage their strengths, and also have the courage to identify and improve on their weaknesses.

A great leader understands how to find the perfect balance between task, people, motivation and strategy. They coach and mentor others – inspiring them to do and be their best – while operating from a place of focus and calm even when they're surrounded by chaos.

This course has been specifically designed to help you be a great leader. Dr Kim Vella, Executive Coach, will equip you with the tools you need to thrive in today's working world, together with the skills you need to help your team do the same.
